Developing a Scholastic Shooting Program

NRA's Competitive Shooting Division is the home of the Collegiate and Schools Program Department, headed by Tori Croft, National Manager, and assisted by Jody West, Program Coordinator. Tori and Jody are available to talk to interested NRA members, school administrators, coaches and athletic directors to assist in developing a shooting program.

Smallbore Rifle, Smallbore Pistol, Air Rifle, Air Pistol, Trap and Skeet are the primary focus of most existing collegiate shooting programs. The limiting factors for most schools are the facilities available for their use. Many colleges and universities can allocate space for air rifle and air pistol programs, but few will have the capability to provide ranges for smallbore rifle, pistol and shotgun shooting. Most college shooting programs rely on local gun clubs for their practice sessions and competitions.

Contact us for more information on how to assist in getting a collegiate shooting program started in your area. Ask for a free copy of the publication Developing a Scholastic Shooting Program. This publication has detailed information on all aspects of starting and running a collegiate competitive shooting club. Our Collegiate Department can be reached by calling (703) 267-1473 or by e-mail at collegiate@nrahq.org.

Score Sheet Submissions

For those volunteers who faithfully write-up your matches for inclusion in the Score Sheet section of Shooting Sports USA—thanks for sharing. Here are some insights to hopefully make submission easier and ensure that your report is published. We have a new form that can be e-mailed to shootingsportsusa@nrahq.org, or it can still be mailed with a stamp and envelope. This Adobe form can be down-loaded from the upper right corner of our website, www.shootingsportsusa.com, along with free Adobe software if you need it. And don't forget to include a photo and caption. Score Sheets are published in date sequence so if, for example, your match was in May and we're currently publishing matches from March and April, your report should be published soon. Match reports and scores that you submit to the NRA Competitive Shooting Division don't have the home town information we require so please use the above form. Thanks again for your support of shooting sports.

Spring Poll: What would prompt you to consider a new shooting sport?

- I'm not competitive. I shoot for fun only.
- An event sponsored by a club.
- The ability to borrow gear and shoot as a guest.
- I really don't have time for another sport.

Big Names Provide Big Support to NRA

At this year's NRA Annual Meetings and Exhibits, Glock donated $115,000 benefitting four areas within NRA. Said Gary Fletcher, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for GLOCK, Inc., "It's important for us at GLOCK, Inc. to recognize that commitment by supporting the NRA and its affiliate organizations." Friends of NRA recently got a few big boosts as well. The NRA Foundation is proud of its new partnership with Blaser USA and thankful for the recent generous donation of 95 Prestige Rifles for the Friends of NRA National Sponsor program. The new Blaser-Friends of NRA sponsorships are available through every NRA Field Representative for a $5,000 tax-deductible contribution. Contact Jeremy Greene at jgreene@nrahq.org for more information.

Lending its support to the shooting sports, Smith & Wesson has taken on the role of sponsor for a few Friends of NRA programs for 2011, making it one of the few generous groups who fund both the Friends of NRA television show and Friends of NRA banquets, held across the U.S. throughout the year. NRA's Managing Director of the Field Operations Division Kyle Weaver welcomed Smith & Wesson as a Friends of NRA sponsor. "Because of their support, we are able to allocate more funds to shooting sports programs on the national and local levels," he said. To learn more, visit www.friendsofnra.org.

Slide-Glide

From one of the world's top shooters, Brian Enos' Slide-Glide comes in light, standard and heavy viscosity versions to match shooters' specific needs. It is blended with the highest-grade extreme pressure compound available; it's stringy, so it stays put where you want it, and it softens felt recoil in semi-automatic firearms as well as protects them from wear. Available in re-sealable tubes and 2-ounce tubs. Contact (877) 219-5598; www.brianenos.com.

BLACKHAWK Injection-Molded Holster

The CQC Standard Model uses an adjustable pressure detent retention system that holds the trigger guard tightly. The holster sports a slim body with tapered edge and speed-cut design for faster draw. It comes complete with a belt loop and paddle platform. Contact Blackhawk: (800) 694-5263; www.blackhawk.com.

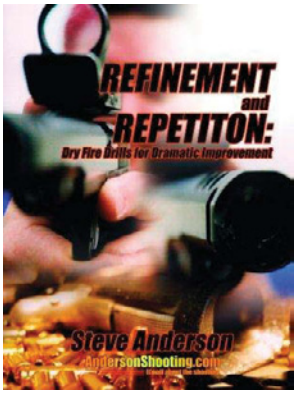

Super HI Torque Range Belt

The CR Speed Super HI Torque belt provides a firm and stable base for all your equipment, including holsters and magazine pouches. The belt is both an inner and outer belt, with new features such as branded inner belt with profiled tip to aid threading through belt loops and embossed rubber CR Speed Logo on the belt clasp. Rigid and durable, it also includes a shooter-friendly Velcro system and comes in 28-inch to 60-inch sizes in a variety of trim colors. Contact Rescomp Handgun Technologies: www.crspeed.co.za.

CED7000 Shot-Activated Timer

The CED7000 has memory storage and recall for review of 10 strings and unlimited shots, an illuminated LCD display, custom par or multiple par time settings, variable delay intervals, date and time displays with an alarm clock feature, two sets of start/review buttons and a shot detection microphone with multiple sensitivity settings. An internal rechargeable battery provides up to 30 hours of use per charge. Contact MidwayUSA: (800) 243-3220; www.midwayusa.com.

For the Library

In his first book Refinement & Repetition, Dry Fire Drills for Dramatic Improvement, Steve Anderson offers up well thought out and organized drills from beginning presentation skills to multiple target engagement and transition techniques. The book includes 38 dry fire drills including the one Anderson used to achieve IPSC Grand Master in his first year. Anderson follows up with Principles of Performance, which emphasizes match consistency and the mental skills needed for solid USPSA match performance. The book helps shooters who have sound fundamentals and basic skills better utilize them in high-stress competition. It includes drills to improves field course skills, and those that isolate the challenges as seen in larger matches. Anderson also covers common mistakes at USPSA matches, personal experiences and an interview with Lanny Bassham. Contact (877) 219-5598; www.brianenos.com.

Professional Pistol Cleaning

The Otis Professional Pistol Cleaning System includes everything the handgun shooter needs to clean pistols and sub guns from 9 mm to .45 caliber. Comes with three cleaning rods, .30 caliber slotted tip, NATO adapter, heavy panoply patches, t-handle obstruction remover, bore reflector/flag safety and Ultra Bore Solvent. The cleaning system also includes key components for precision cleaning-brass scraper, straight pick, pin punch, end brush and all purpose receiver brush and a female rod handle. Convenient sized packaging, it takes up very little space in your range bag. Contact Otis Technology: (800) OTISGUN; www.otisgun.com.

Griffin, GA
Feb. 19, 2011
Submitted by Lisa Kelly
77 competitors

The 2011 Georgia Sport Shooting Association (GSSA) held their BB Gun Championship at the Ole Mill Range Complex in Griffin, GA. Competitors ranged in age from 9 to 15 from 10 teams hailing from seven counties throughout the state. Shooters fired in four positions; 10 shots each from prone, standing, kneeling and sitting for a possible score of 400. The Wayne County team of 12 traveled 150 miles to participate. It was worth the effort though, with a first place team win and a solid 30 point lead over second place Coffee County. In third place was Cherokee County Red Team. Thanks to all the volunteers and coaches for giving 77 youngsters the thrill of competing in a state-level match.

Winner	Dustin Counts	Wayne County, GA	380
2nd	Austin Walker	Wayne County, GA	379
3rd	Glen Lauzon	Coweta County, GA	370

John Martin 500-Yard Midrange Prone Championship

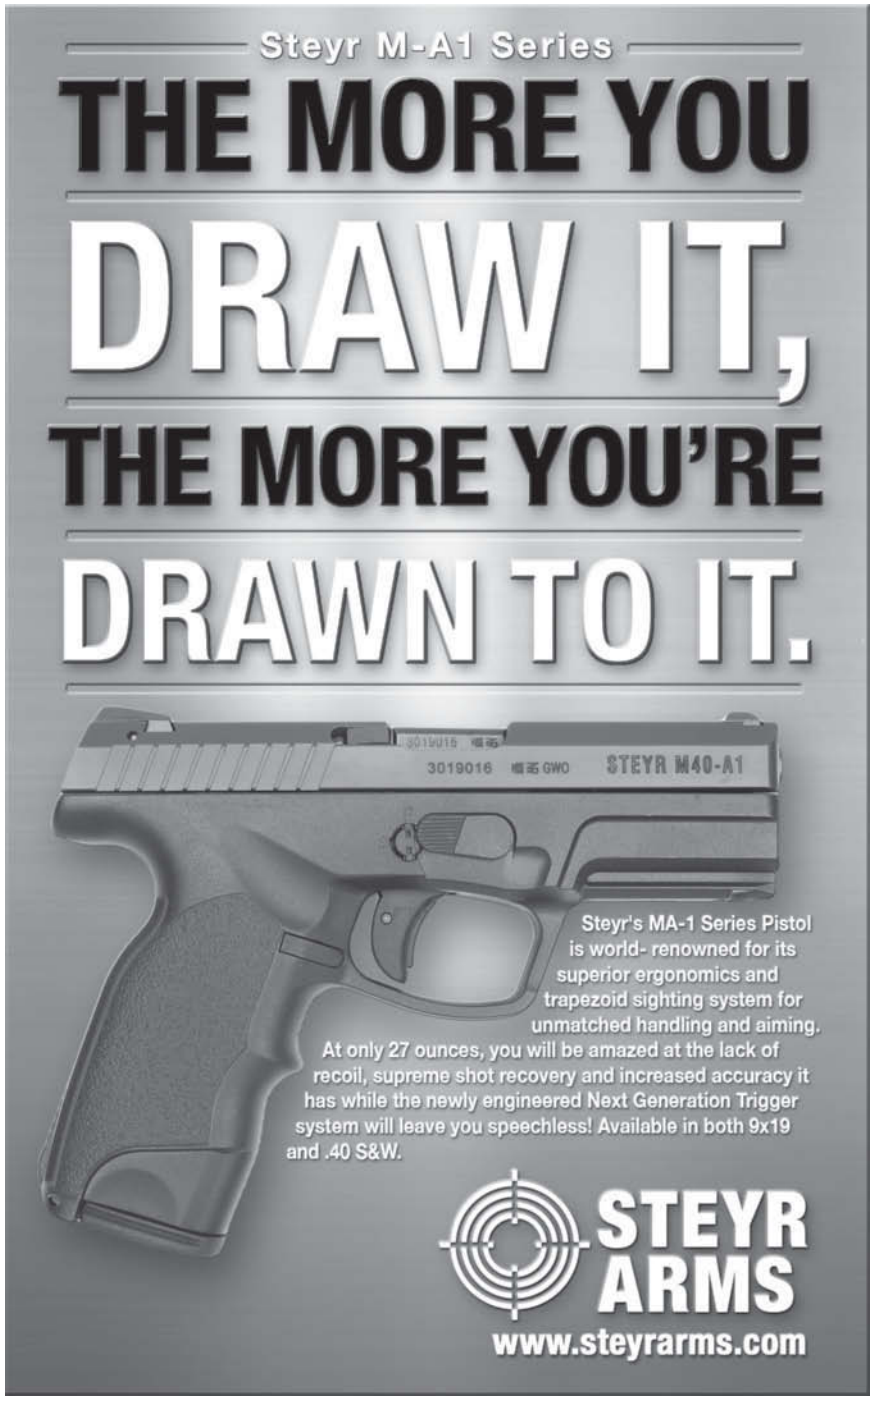

Rio Salado Sportsman's Club
Mesa, AZ
Mar. 19, 2011
Submitted by Michael Touver
39 competitors

On Saturday, Mar. 19, Rio Salado held its third annual Highpower Championship. The NRA-approved match is a standing trophy match, with the trophy being kept at the club. This is a midrange prone only event so that F-Class may participate. And participate they do, as over half of the match consisted of F-Class shooters.

The weather was beautiful with warm sunshine and light switchy winds of medium difficulty, making it a relaxed, yet challenging shooting day. The match was full with 39 shooters, and three relays on each of the 13 targets. Competition was strong, not only for the overall win, but also for the combined marksman, sharpshooter and expert class. There were five juniors and two women, adding to the variety of people attending. Overall the match went very well, the shooters were pleased, and lots of trophies were handed out.

The respective winners were: German Salazar shot a score of 598-35X for the Any Irons win. He shot a BAT 3-lug Bartlen barreled prone gun. Jeff Miles shot a score of 583-17X for the Service Rifle win with an NMAR15 A2 service rifle. Steve Lockwood shot a score of 592-29X for the F-Class T/R win using a Bernard-actioned Doan Trevor stocked .308 Winchester. Finally, Darren Sucato shot a score of 594-25X for the F-Class Open win using a BAT-actioned 6BR.

The match is named after John Martin, 83, affiliated with the club since the early 1970s.

Kansas Indoor Prone Match: "The Margaret Murdock Match"

Wichita BB Gun Team
Salina, KS
Mar. 5-6, 2011
Submitted by Larry Richardson
28 competitors

Murdock Marksmen.

The Kansas State Indoor Prone Championship a.k.a. the "Margaret Murdock Match," named in honor of the famous Kansan and Olympic Rifle champion, was held Mar. 5-6, at the indoor rifle range at St. John's Military School in Salina. This match continues to be a popular competition among serious smallbore rifle competitors, attracting shooters from throughout Kansas and Missouri.

As this match has evolved over the past several years, shooters who have experienced this unique style of smallbore prone shooting have come to look forward to it and develop their own winning strategies. As a result, the match, which consists of 120 shots fired at a range of 50 feet "gallery style" utilizes a variety of difficult targets that mimic, somewhat, the more common outdoor prone game. Without having to contend with the vagaries of wind to complicate things, the competition is usually tight and this year was no different.

The final result usually comes down to a matter of center shots or "X's" to decide the winner. When the gun smoke had cleared after the 28 shooters had fired their last shots, that is just what it came down to. Senior shooter and match organizer, Larry Richardson of Derby, led the pack with a personal best 1195-93X after the first two relays on Saturday, having dropped all five of his points in the last stage of the match. The "Big Gun" in the form of two-time champion Aaron Wiebe, of Whitewater, showed up on Sunday and, as usual, made things interesting. Wiebe trailed by a single point after the first two stages but showed his championship mettle by only dropping four in the final stage tying Richardson on points. His 108X performance gave him the tiebreaking edge he needed for his third straight victory.

In addition to the tight race for the top slot, the top two were trailed by a single point by William Wilkinson of Dixon, MO, who shot an 1194-100X for third place and first expert. In fact, only 10 points separated the top nine shooters.

On the junior side of the match, 15-year-old Jack Berhorst of Lawson, MO, blew away his competition for the title of Match Winner with an 1191-89X. Second place and Kansas resident champion honors were won by SJMS cadet Stephen Ritter who fired 1148-55X. Third place Junior went to Tyler Bohl of Phillipsburg who fired 1144-54X.

The sponsoring Wichita BB Gun Team wishes to thank all of the competitors for their support and MSGT Tony Blair of SJMS for allowing us the use of their fabulous range facility, the finest of its kind in the Midwest.

This was our first approved match in years. The reigning champion—Lee Widdel, of Minot, ND, was our winner with a 980, while Melissa Langer of Bismark took second place with a 968. This match is a precursor to North Dakota's state championship to be held in Bottineau. Many of our competitors use this match as practice for the upcoming championship. We had shooters from across the state compete in several classifications including a healthy number of unclassified shooters. New shooters always remind volunteers that our work does have its rewards.

This was Fall's seventh match since reinstating bullseye shooting at the club. Mike Westock has claimed this match as his own since he has won the last several tournaments. Mike wowed us with a 100-10X in the .45 timed fire match on his way to a strong 2611 score. John Gemmill took second place as he begins his journey to Grand Senior category. Mark Hladchuk (EX), Bill Hacella (SS) and Mike B. Soklaski (MK) won their respective classifications. Senior shooter Soklaski brought his father along and he was second expert. The two of them will be a force in the future.

2010 NRA STATE TEAM POSTAL MATCH RESULTS

BY DIAN BULLOCK

The State Team Postal Matches are only one of more than 100 NRA-sanctioned annual postal tournaments. Here's how your state teams stacked-up nationally.

Postal matches allow shooters to compete shoulder-to-shoulder with fellow competitors across the country without leaving their hometown. The top three winners of each of the 2010 State Team Postal Matches are listed below. Awards were mailed in May to the team captain or, if none was listed, to tournament sponsors.

As in all tournaments, the postal matches are heavily supported by volunteers, parents and friends who generously donate their weekends, evenings and personal resources for the benefit of the participants. Thanks for your continuing support of shooting sports.

Organizing an "As Issu

NRA highpower shooters pursuing their Distinguished Rifleman badge already know CMP conducts the Excellence In Competition "Leg" matches that lead to earning those coveted awards. It's routine to see a CMP Leg match scheduled as a highlight during an NRA highpower rifle tournament. But at the other end of the competitive spectrum, CMP created the "As-Issued" Military Rifle Matches—semi-formal competitions designed to get non-competing shooters to bring their un-accurized, military surplus rifles out to the range. Yes, CMP takes responsibility for conducting "As-Issued" matches nationally, but it's up to us and our club to introduce the matches to new shooters at the local level. Because CMP offers much of the support, putting on an "As-Issued" match is easier than you might think.

Which rifles? The "As-Issued" matches include the John C. Garand, Springfield ('03 and '0A3), M1 Carbine and Vintage Military Rifle (VMR) Matches. The Vintage class permits manually operated (bolt action or straight-pull, no semi-automatic) rifles that foreign countries commonly issued to their troops. This class draws a lot of folks who want to shoot their surplus Mausers, Enfields, K-31s, Moisin-Nagants and other warhorses. The U.S. Krag and M1917 rifles also fall in this VMR match. The semi-auto M1941 Johnson rifle is fired in the John C. Garand match. The beauty is that you can shoot all these matches simultaneously or lump them all under one Military Rifle Match.

If you wish to expand your event to attract more shooters, you can include both Unlimited and Special Military Rifle matches that will compete separately from the "As-Issued" rifles. This would include other Garands such as National Match M1s, the "Navy Garand" chambered in 7.62 NATO and military semi-autos like the M-14/M1A, M-16/AR-15 and "foreigners." Except for M1 carbines, these matches are intended to be fired at 200 yards on the NRA "SR" target, but CMP allows the use of the 100 yard reduced target (SR-1). M1 Carbines are fired at 100 yards only on the SR-1 target.

Sanctioned benefits: Why sanction your match? Credibility is one reason. Embraced by NRA, the CMP "As-Issued" matches will attract collectors and recreational shooters. The fact that your match is sanctioned may also put your shooters at ease with a perception of "official" structure and safety. CMP also provides awards. Dealing with a bureaucracy means dealing with lots of forms, but in this case it's good. CMP provides scorecards and achievement certificates, and you can order "Achievement Pins" to award to competitors who shoot minimum scores. And here's a bonus: When CMP sanctions the match, you have an opportunity to buy discounted surplus M2 Ball (.30-06) ammo from CMP to issue to your competitors. Bonus #2: Shooters who compete in a CMP-sanctioned match have met one of the qualifications for purchasing a surplus Garand, Springfield or M1 Carbine from CMP below present retail cost.

Get organized: Organizing an "As Issued" match isn't all that difficult when you break it down into a series of steps. After enlisting four to six volunteers, set the date and draft the match program. To apply for sanctioning, go online to download and print an application to conduct either a CMP-Sanctioned Match or Clinic. Fill-out the request and mail it to CMP with a copy of your match program and a $20 fee. (Your club must be affiliated with CMP, which entails a $30 annual fee.)

Some tips: There are two John C. Garand Match courses of fire to choose from: The 30-round "A" course and the 50-round "B" course. Our club shoots the former because there are no target pullers and we must change targets after each stage. The shorter match ends in about half the time, before idle first-relay competitors lose interest and drift away. The 30-round course also uses less ammo. If you shoot the match on NRA SR-1 reduced targets at 100 yards, M1 Carbine shooters can fire right along with everyone else. For these matches, we use our club-owned Garand rifles as loaners for competitors who don't own and have probably never shot one—a reason for holding a Garand Clinic beforehand.

SAFE SHOPPIN

By Chip Lohman, Managing Editor
Photos contributed by manufacturers.

THE THREAT

Rather than simply preventing children or their friends from gaining access to your firearms, research for this article focused on fire protection and foiling a thief determined to steal them. If you've been seen with a large number of guns at the range or if your name is associated with a collection through a consignment sale at the local gun store, your first line of defense—anonymity, may have already been compromised. The frontline defense against theft is for people not to know about your guns at all. While it's impractical to completely avoid word-of-mouth knowledge about your firearms, maintenance workers and guests don't need to know about your gun vault. The mere knowledge of a safe may make your collection all the more attractive to a potential thief as a one-stop-shop for a lucrative haul. Even though some manufacturers go to lengths to make a vault attractive, consider camouflaging it. For example, place the safe inside a metal cabinet labeled "Paint Locker;" add a false wall to the room; or build a sliding façade to roll in front of the vault, made to look like storage boxes.

According to industry experts who contributed to this article, the greatest risk to the firearms owner is fire, followed secondly by the threat of an opportunistic thief. From Doug Tarter of Ft. Knox Safes, "The typical thief rarely targets a firearms vault armed with an acetylene torch or drill. It is more likely that they will discover the safe after breaking-in to your residence and use your tools to gain access, like the sledge hammer in the garage leaning against the safe."

FLOOR ATTACHMENT

If you hauled it in, a thief can haul it out. Don't allow a thief to roll your safe out the door with a simple hand truck. Plan to bolt it to the floor using a safe designed with this feature in mind. And, once again, this tactic assumes the thief knows about your safe to begin with. Be creative.

BOX FIRST, THEN THE HARDWARE

Don't be distracted by marketing emphasis on bolts, hinges and locks when the safe's box structure could be nothing but a "soup can." Shop first for a vault with walls and insulation designed to withstand a high temperature fire or a beating from an axe. If it meets these criteria, then continue with an examination of bolts, hinges and the locking mechanism. From Mike Baker of Cannon Safes: "How a door is constructed is a big factor in keeping it closed. You want a door that is rigid and has structural support around the edges so it doesn't buckle under stress. When it comes to what is holding the door in, you can look at two things. First, how is the door jamb constructed? Some safe doors can be flexed with just your hands. Secondly, check to see what percentage of the door makes contact behind the jamb. A safe with 40, 1-inch bolts looks massive but only emiums, rotect your ghts to ong term.

provides 40 inches of contact. A safe with five, 1-inch bolts with a jewelers lug (special hinge) that goes from top to bottom on the hinge side would provide 59 inches of support on a five foot tall safe."

WHICH LOCK?

Combination

Pros: Low maintenance; no batteries; more difficult to observe combination sequence.
Cons: Slow to operate; can be temperamental; unless a reputable brand is used, the combination may be easier to defeat; must have locksmith change combination for you.

Electronic

Pros: Easy to use; cost effective; flexible (high-end models can integrate with home security/surveillance system); more features (multiple user combinations and penalty lockouts); does not require a locksmith to change the combination. Ask the salesman which lock they selected for their personal safe. Several we spoke with use an electronic lock.
Cons: Require battery changes. If you frequently change and, as a result, forget the combination, a locksmith will have a hard time opening it. (Fingerprint wear on electronic locks is a myth. They actually use a non-wearing material.)

Biometric

Pros: Similar to electronic locks—speed, ease and flexibility; most allow for the storage of several fingerprints.
Cons: Not 100% reliable (if your finger is dirty, the lock may not work); expensive; still a developing technology. Should be much better in a few years.

FIRE

The more likely threat to your firearm collection is a house fire. Even though you may take excellent care of your home, the neighbor's fire or a nearby lightning strike can send burning embers onto your roof. And unless you have a special insurance rider, the loss could be expensive, to say nothing of irreplaceable heirloom pieces. Consequently, the lining becomes one of the most important practical considerations when shopping for a vault. The thickness and type of insulation, the existence of gaps in the lining and how the lining is attached to the safe walls are things to watch for, as well as the country of origin. Remember last year's news about Chinese drywall and litigation from several U.S. states about sulfur and formaldehyde content? Hurricane Katrina emergency trailer homes that were later discovered to have been constructed with such drywall helped raise awareness of this ongoing problem. Shoppers should ask probing questions about the origin of a vault's insulation.

A typical house fire lasts about an hour—often only minutes, sadly. The hottest room is the master closest; the coolest is the garage or basement on an exterior wall. A house fire burns at about 1200°F and safes are frequently rated to maintain an internal temperature of no more than 350°F for X number of minutes. Paper chars at about 420°F and typical polymer guns begin to melt at 480°F. The use of fire insulation such as gypsum has been a big improvement in gun safes. When heated, the steam emitted from gypsum helps cool internal temperatures during a fire and creates overpressure that keeps outside temperatures at bay. When evaluating fire endurance, don't overlook the simple criteria of a safe's weight. Two safes of equal dimension with varying weight suggests that the heavier safe is using more layers and/or thicker steel panels to better insulate your firearms from the burning inferno outside.

Fire ratings are problematic for this industry, leaving it up to the consumer to dig for details. Some standards such as Underwriters Laboratory (UL) are intended for commercial structures rather than a home fire. This lack of a standard metric leaves room for well-intended manufacturers to create their own tests, making it difficult for consumers to come up with an apples-to-apples comparison. From Mike Baker of Cannon Safes: "This is a huge 'buyer-beware.' Even with the existence of a UL Security Label, most of the gun safe manufacturers do not follow such testing standards when it comes to fire, if they test at all. A few come up with confusing comparisons to make you forget they have not been tested. A very few companies actually test at a third-party laboratory that scientifically studies behaviors of home fires and creates standards for testing."

Confirming what the experts told us, our search for a Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory for gun safe fire protection standards left us empty-handed. As an aside, a UL Security rating may be what's required for a discount on your insurance premiums, but it has nothing to do with fire protection. Check with your underwriter, as well as your tax preparer. As a security item, the safe may be an allowed write-off on your taxes.

STORAGE

From Jamey Skousen of Liberty Safes, "The number one complaint after they get their safe installed is: 'I wish I would have bought a bigger one.' It's amazing how many of our customers tell us they ended up putting more stuff in their safe than they ever thought possible."

Like the size of our reloading bench or how many guns will fit inside our bullseye pistol box, allow for more space than you think you'll need. You know best what will work for your collection, but plan for growth. The fireproof feature of your safe may have you storing documents and other valuables in what was originally intended for only guns. Consider drawers, door pouches and filing space in addition to the number of guns in your collection.

CORROSION CONTROL

The best defense against corrosion is a layer of preservative on your gun and dry air. Closed gun cases are among the worst places for firearm storage due to trapped moisture and the fact that the gun may have been placed there while at the range without first wiping it down with oil or a silicon cloth. A fireproof design makes vault ventilation problematic. Intercept products (the topic of a future article in SSUSA) are those copper-colored sheets that do for guns what zincs do for boat propellers and outdrives: They become a sacrificial anode and the target of corrosion, rather than your guns. When dissimilar metals are in close contact, all it takes is a little moisture to create a wet cell battery that will decay metal. As a precaution, consider bags made of Intercept or similar products that do a better job of corrosion control that a simple tray of desiccant that must be emptied of water or replaced at regular intervals. Heating bars can work if your vault is rigged for one, either with an electrical outlet or a fire protected hole designed for this purpose. Heating bars don't actually prevent rust, but rather minimize the chance of condensation by maintaining a constant temperature.

There are preservatives intended for long term gun storage including Breakfree's Collector, MIL SPEC Cosmoline or, from the Marine Industry—BoeShield T-9. If you frequently remove, use and return guns to the safe, then products like VCI protection bags and Bore-Stores gun socks will reduce the chore of removing and re-applying storage lubricants.

INSTALLATION

Hopefully by now you're thinking of a large, heavy safe to do the job correctly. What goes hand-in-hand with this plan is a professional installation. A friend of mine ripped the tailgate off of his truck trying to relocate his 730-pound safe. Shortcuts during installation may be false economy. Many of the top-of-the-line manufacturers include installation as part of their service through local retailers, a service not provided by the big box stores in most cases. You'll need to survey the floor strength unless the vault will be on a concrete slab. An inadequate floor may not surface as a problem until months later. When it does, you could be facing difficult repairs or catastrophic failure of the floor. Again, include a plan for properly securing your safe to the floor.

SHOPPING CHECKLIST

Here are a few items to add to your comparison checklist:

- Price: If you want to feel secure, you can get inexpensive safes on sale at the big box stores. If you prefer to invest in actual security, the cost of materials, lock and a quality box design mean that you should plan on a minimum price of about $1,200-$1,500.
- Pick the lock that suits your needs. Several of our experts use electronic locks on their personal safe.
- Dimensions that can accommodate future growth and frequent access to records and valuables.
- Verifiable fire-ratings and linings without gaps.
- Minimum of 10-11 gauge steel. (Economy safes often use 12-gauage.)
- Judge locking mechanisms by the percentage of contact area, rather than simply the number of bolts. If offered, "relockers" provide additional bolts that close during tampering.
- Climate control seals and electrical outlet provisions.
- External hinges for improved door swing and access. (Keep in mind that the bolts and relockers secure the door, in addition to the hinges.)

2011 INTERCOLLEGIATE CLAY TARGET CHAMPIONSHIPS

BY CHIP LOHMAN, MANAGING EDITOR

Bethel University's Joey Williams "smokes" his clay target during the Men's International Trap event at the ACUI Clay Target Championships in San Antonio, TX.

The Association of College Unions International (ACUI) is the perennial host for this annual gathering of the best collegiate shotgun competitors in the nation. NRA is one of the principle sponsors. Since the tournament's inception, ACUI has partnered with The National Shooting Complex in San Antonio, TX, home to the National Skeet Shooting and National Sporting Clays Associations. The 671-acre National Shooting Complex provides permanent store fronts for more than 30 vendors in support of 20+ outdoor events held annually, including the World Skeet and National Sporting Clays Championships.

This year's 43rd Collegiate Clay Target Championships saw a 15 percent increase in the number of attending colleges including first-timers from Harvard, Clemson and Jacksonville Universities along with Hillsdale College, Mississippi College and the University of Vermont. Shooter participation was also up 30 percent from the previous year. Students from 50 colleges competed in one or more of the following six events: International Skeet and Trap, American Skeet and Trap, Five Stand and Sporting Clays.

In International Trap, the faster clay targets travel 78 yards versus 50 yards in American Trap. Competitors in the International event also move to the next firing point after every shot, instead of firing five-shots per position. In American Trap, targets are thrown up to 17 degrees left or right of center, at a single elevation. In International, targets are thrown up to 45 degrees left or right and at differing elevations. And the International Trap rules allow you to fire a second shot if needed for each of the 125 preliminary targets (75 targets for women), but only one shot per target in the "finals" round of 25 targets undertaken by the top six shooters. In American Trap, men and women shoot the same number of targets.

In only their second season of competition, Bethel finished third in the High Overall Team standings. Bethel's Brandon Sellers was named an All-American and Bellis Alexander won the national sportsmanship award.

From NRA's National Collegiate Manager, Tori Croft: "The NRA Collegiate & Schools Program is proud to be a sponsor of this growing event. The competitors and the coaches are a joy to work with and the camaraderie is truly infectious. I look forward to attending this exciting event in 2012!"

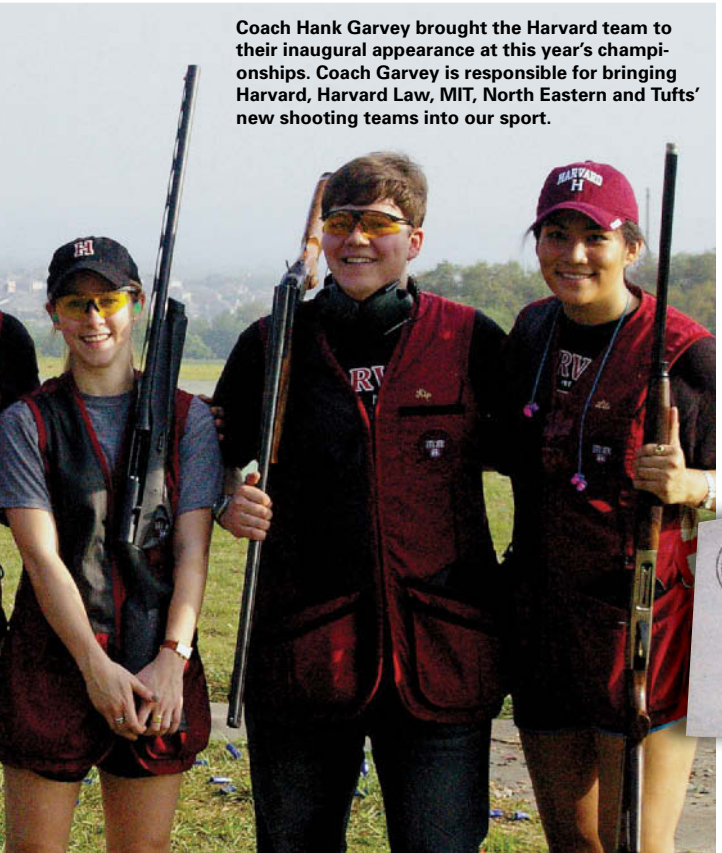

Women's HOA (High Overall) winner Sarah Hughes of Lindenwood University.

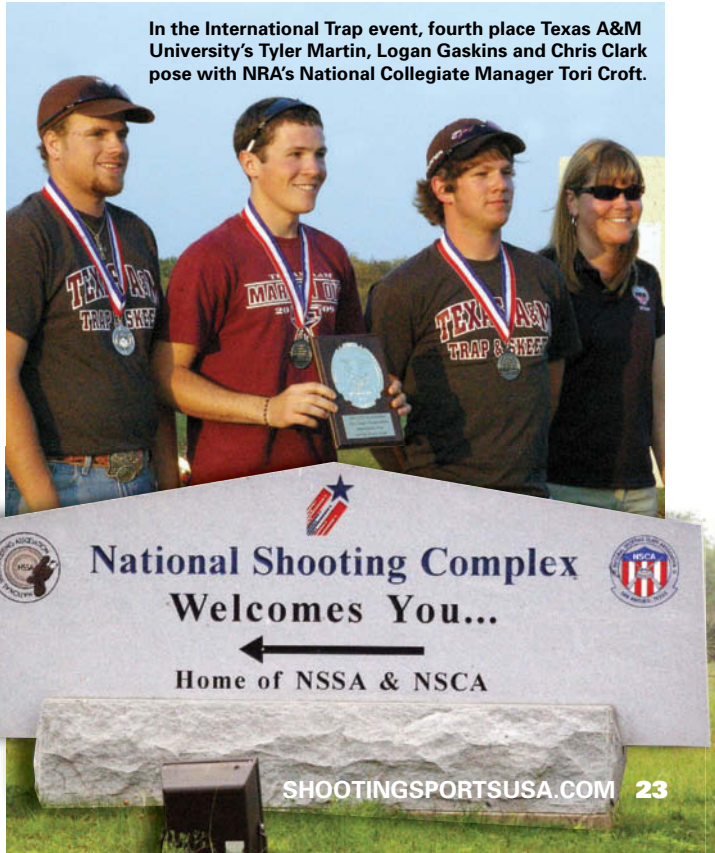

Bethel University's Bellis Alexander was nominated by her peers and match staff for the sportsmanship award.

This year's 43rd Collegiate Clay Target Championships saw a 15 percent increase in the number of attending colleges including first-timers from Harvard, Clemson and Jacksonville Universities along with Hillsdale College, Mississippi College and the University of Vermont.

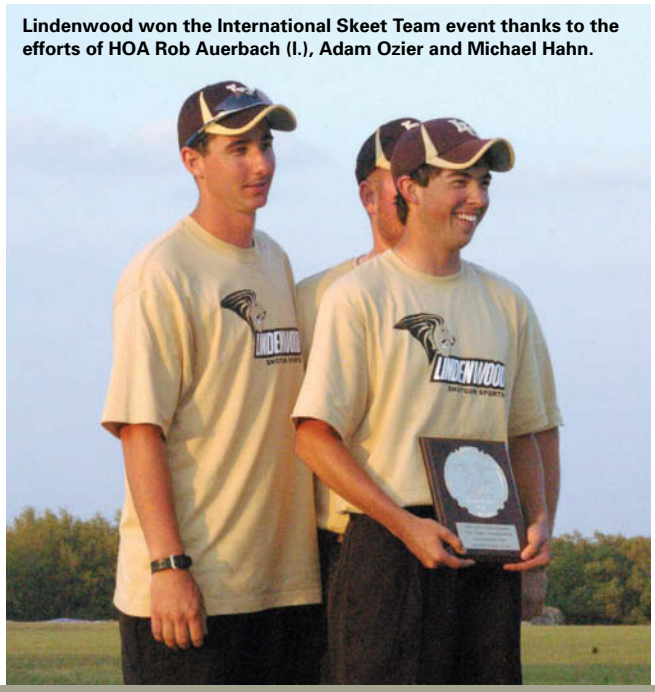

Coach Hank Garvey brought the Harvard team to their inaugural appearance at this year's championships. Coach Garvey is responsible for bringing Harvard, Harvard Law, MIT, North Eastern and Tufts' new shooting teams into our sport.

In the International Trap event, fourth place Texas A&M University's Tyler Martin, Logan Gaskins and Chris Clark pose with NRA's National Collegiate Manager Tori Croft.

In Women's International Skeet, Emily Blount (PU) placed first, trailed by Ali Chiang (FIDSF) in second place. See college abbreviations on next page.

Lindenwood won the International Skeet Team event thanks to the efforts of HOA Rob Auerbach (l.), Adam Ozier and Michael Hahn.

"The NRA Collegiate & Schools Program is proud to be a sponsor of this growing event. The competitors and the coaches are a joy to work with and the camaraderie is truly infectious. I look forward to attending this exciting event in 2012!"

NRA's National Shotgun Coach Trainer and Level 2 Coach Don Sipes (r.) takes time in between rounds to school shooters on the finer points of the International rules.

Lindenwood's Megan Orle took first in International Trap and placed second in American Trap, scored by long run.

COLLECTIBLES

DID YOU KNOW?

... that Camp Perry will host the first outdoor electronic target high power rifle event this summer during the National Defense Match, reported in the March issue of Shooting Sports USA? Scheduled for the morning of Saturday, August 13, on the Rodriquez range, plans include large plasma screen monitors for spectators to watch the historic beginnings of what is envisioned to become a National NRA 3-Gun Championship.
